

Electric mobility from China

Product development and export supply for importers, distributors and vehicle brands.

Who we are

MOVIMO is an electric mobility brand from China, operated by GUANGYU in Changzhou. We define products around overseas market needs and work with partner manufacturers to coordinate development, production, quality management and delivery.

We support importers, distributors, vehicle brands and local assembly businesses with electric two-wheelers and three-wheelers, starting with existing models or developing a product around a specific project.

How we support your business

Product selection and development

Match the model and configuration to your market, use case and target budget.

Supply chain coordination

Organize manufacturing resources and coordinate suppliers throughout the project.

Quality and delivery management

Coordinate product requirements, sample confirmation, production quality and shipment.

Flexible cooperation

Discuss existing models, customer branding and development needs for your project.

Experience behind MOVIMO

Our founder, Allen Wu, has seven years of experience in electric two-wheeler supply chain management. In his previous professional work, he participated in the development, mass production and delivery of multiple SPIRO products.
